

Beatriz Campos BArch MA PHD
Associate Director

Beatriz Campos registered as an architect in Brazil. She graduated from Mackenzie University, São Paulo and continued her training at the Medical Architecture Research Unit, London Metropolitan University and the Bartlett School of Graduate Studies, University College London. Beatriz joined Space Syntax as a Research Assistant in 1994, and became an Associate Director in 2005.

For several years Beatriz worked for a London-based architectural practice and specialised in the design of health care buildings. Since joining Space Syntax, she has been involved in more than 60 complex buildings and urban projects in the UK and abroad. The projects include the spatial analysis and design appraisal of health care buildings such as general and district hospitals and social work service buildings, large scale master plans, design appraisals of mixed use developments and fine scale design of public squares.

Beatriz lectures at the Bartlett Graduate School and regularly presents at conferences and symposiums, such as the Walk21 conference and the international Space Syntax symposiums. Her interests lie in the relationship between configuration and patterns of space use, in particular the performance of public spaces and the quality of the public realm.

Education, Awards & Appointments

- 2006 Member of Architects for Health
- 2000 Honorary Senior Researcher, The Bartlett, University College London
- 1999 PhD in Architecture, University College London
- 1989 MA in Health Facility Planning, London Metropolitan University
- 1986 Diploma in Hospital Architecture, University of São Paulo, Brazil
- 1984 Registered Architect - IAB, Brazil